

FOREST FIRE AND WILDFIRE PREVENTION

“SUSTAINABLE RESILIENT ECOSYSTEM AND AGRICULTURE MANAGEMENT IN MONGOLIA (STREAM)” PROJECT’S FORESTRY COMPONENT PRESENTS

Fire! Quickly call for people for help!

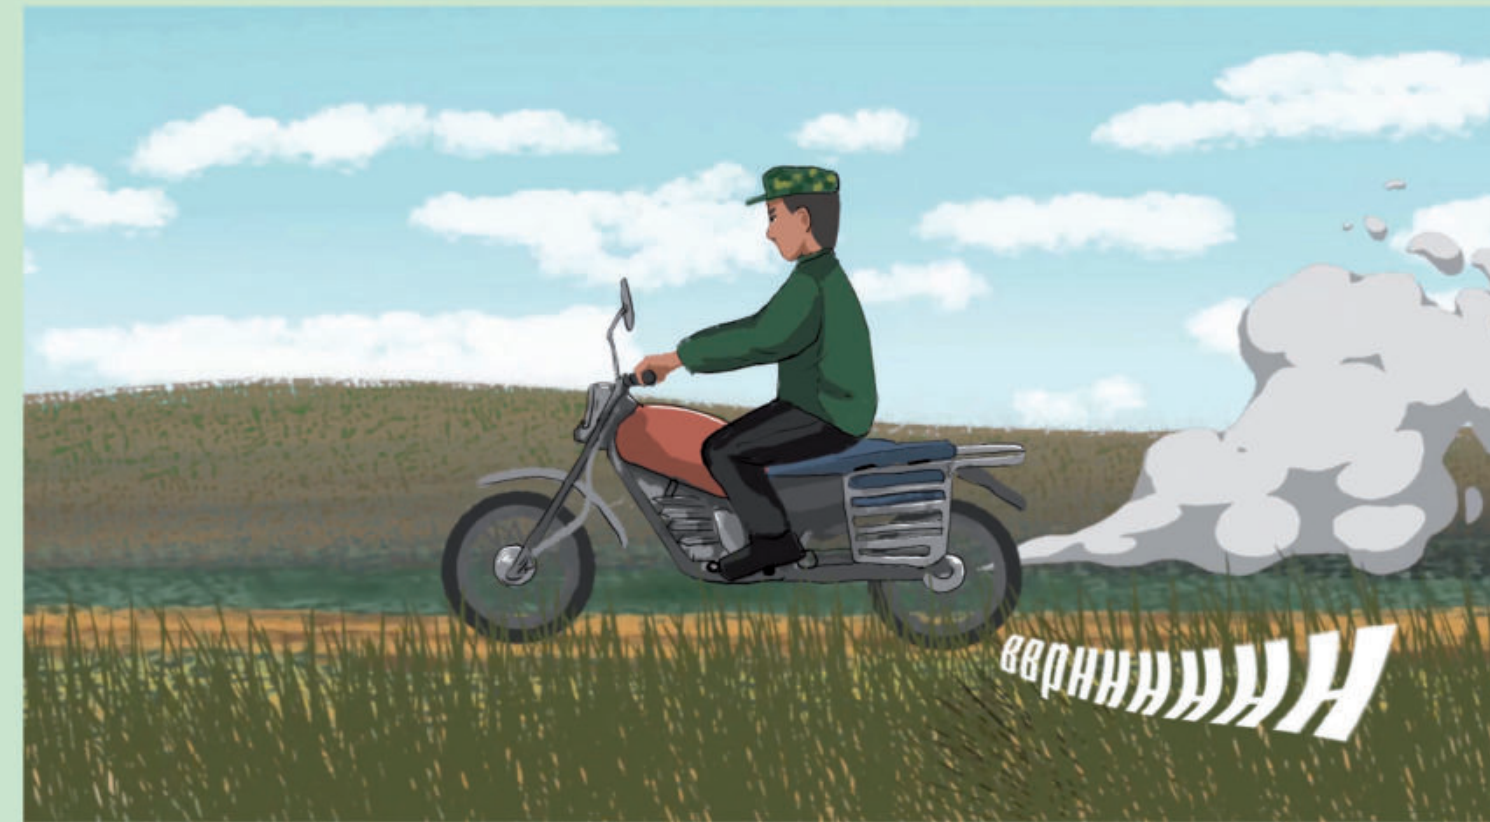

The forest is burning!

People! the forest is burning!

The fire risk is the highest during the spring and fall when grass and trees are dry between March 20 and June 10; and September 20 and November 10.

Most forest fire are caused by human activities, for instance an unextinguished campfire

A burning cigarette or a glass bottle thrown away carelessly.

When sunlight is reflected by the glass, it works like a magnifying glass and it can start a fire.

Another serious thing is that forest fire can even spread underground and start burning trees from their roots.

Therefore, everyone should strictly follow the wildfire prevention rules in order to protect nature and the environment.

The forest fire was caused by our irresponsible actions.

What I mentioned at the gathering today are the most common cause of forest fires.

Ganaa! I hope you understood what the reason for the forest fire was.

Yes, I understand well. I will remind people again.

Never go for a walk in the forest during the dry season.

Never throw cigarette butts or glass bottles on the ground.

If a fire is lit, extinguish it thoroughly with water or bury it with earth.

There should be no glass residue on the ground.

FOREST FIRE AND WILDFIRE PREVENTION

People must understand that only one cigarette or broken piece of glass can destroy the forest.

When you are allowed to make campfires in the designated places or on the hardened surface away from trees and cleared from dry grass and litter on the ground and use ring made of stone to contain the fire.

Forest fires are harmful for the livelihood of the local people and country's economy.

Therefore, "it is very important that everybody protect the forest responsibly, and please follow those recommendations to prevent from forest fire!"
