

Fact sheet on new Eschborn building

Facts and figures

The size of the new site at Ludwig-Erhard-Str. 7 in Eschborn is approx. 14,700 square metres.

The gross floor space will extend over six floors above ground level, with a total of around 33,300 gross square metres for offices and other purposes. There will be a two-storey underground car park with a gross area of 21,000 square metres.

The building will house around 920 workspaces and 600 parking spaces.

In addition to flexible office space, the new building will have a conference area with an auditorium and meeting rooms, a restaurant with its own kitchen and bistro, and a computer centre.

In addition, 3,500 square metres of courtyards and grounds will be landscaped to closely mirror the natural environment: native plants and grasses will provide biodiversity and ensure that sealed areas are kept to a minimum.

The purchase agreement was signed on 3 December 2020.

Construction began in early 2022 and is scheduled to take around four years. The building is set to be completed in 2025. GIZ is investing a total of 220 million euros in the construction project.

The new building will meet the criteria for the German Sustainable Building Council's gold standard certification and the aim is to achieve platinum certification. For example, sustainable construction materials are being used and access is completely barrier-free. Furthermore, a sustainable energy concept including photovoltaic and geothermal systems will allow sustainable management.

The project is being implemented by Frankfurt developer PHOENIX in collaboration with Vienna-based architects Caramel.

In total, the GIZ Campus (comprising the new building and the other GIZ buildings to the west of the railway tracks) used by the current workforce of around 3,000 people will provide 80,500 square metres of space in future.
