Dear Sir/Madam,

The Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) GmbH is an international cooperation enterprise for sustainable development with worldwide operations on behalf of the German Government. We work to shape a future worth living in over 120 countries around the world.

The project “Solutions for Land- and Seascape Management in Indonesia (SOLUSI)” aims at developing and deploying an ecosystem approach for land and seascapes in three regions in Indonesia. As such, its focus lies on biodiversity conservation and ecological restoration, including efforts to strengthen the sustained provision of eco-system services, strengthen blue and green economies as pathways to sustainable development, including agroforestry, aquaculture, and the promotion of ecotourism.

The current long-term technocratic national development planning mandates a specific indicator for biodiversity management as a measure of the efforts in halting biodiversity loss and ensuring sustainable use. As the indicator is set at national level, the subnational governments are encouraged to mainstream the same indicator in their long-term development planning. In line with the program to halt biodiversity loss, Central Java government has updated the latest biodiversity profile supported by SOLUSI Project. According to the Regulation of the Minister of Environment No. 29/2009 on Guidelines for Biodiversity Conservation at the Subnational Level, the next step after developing a biodiversity profile is to create a biodiversity master plan. The updated profile will outline the current state of biodiversity, serving as a foundation for effective conservation planning through the master plan.
