Project no.: G-012791-001
Project title: Nickel Impact Program Indonesia (NIPI)
Country: Indonesia

Service Tendered:
Baseline Assessment of the Current Environmental and Ecological Conditions of Weda Bay, North Maluku

Award Procedure: Negotiated procedure

Dear Sir/Madam,

As a federal enterprise, the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) GmbH supports the German Government in achieving its objectives in the field of international cooperation for sustainable development.

Indonesia has experienced rapid growth in the nickel mining and processing sector, driven by rising global demand for nickel as a critical material for electric vehicle batteries and stainless-steel production. In 2023, Indonesia produced approximately 1.8 million metric tons of nickel nearly 50% of global supply and production is projected to increase further in the coming years. A significant share of this expansion is concentrated in the Weda Bay area, Central Halmahera, North Maluku, where PT Weda Bay Nickel and the Indonesia Weda Bay Industrial Park (IWIP) have developed one of the world's largest nickel-processing hubs. While this growth has strengthened Indonesia's strategic position in global supply chains, it has also intensified environmental pressures on terrestrial, freshwater, and marine ecosystems, as well as socio-economic challenges for local communities that depend on natural resources for their livelihoods.

To address these challenges, the Nickel Impact Programme Indonesia (NIPI) has been established as a collaborative initiative aimed at reducing community-prioritized environmental and social impacts associated with nickel mining and processing activities in the Weda Bay area. Implemented by the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ)

GmbH, the programme focuses on ten communities surrounding the IWIP industrial area and adopts a community-centred and evidence-based approach.

The Nickel Impact Programme Indonesia (NIPI) is a collaborative initiative aimed at addressing environmental and social impacts associated with nickel mining and processing activities in the Weda Bay area, Central Halmahera, North Maluku. As one of the world's major nickel production hubs, Weda Bay plays an important role in the global nickel supply chain, particularly in supporting the rapidly growing electric vehicle industry. However, the rapid expansion of mining and industrial activities has also increased environmental pressures on coastal and marine ecosystems and raised concern regarding their implications for local communities.

Under Topic3: Aquatic Biodiversity, NIPI seeks to support the protection and restoration of freshwater and marine ecosystems in the Weda Bay area. To support this objective, the programme will commission a baseline assessment of the current environmental and ecological conditions of Weda Bay and its associated coastal and freshwater systems, incl. an analysis of pressures (sediment, heavy metals, pH etc.) on said conditions.

The study will adopt an integrated ecosystem assessment approach, combining ecological surveys, environmental quality monitoring, oceanographic and hydrological analysis, and socio-ecological assessment. The results will provide a scientifically robust baseline of ecosystem conditions and support the development of management trigger values, monitoring indicators, and a long-term ecosystem monitoring framework to inform conservation, restoration, and evidence-based environmental management in Weda Bay.

NIPI project is currently seeking a company/consulting for Consultancy service for Baseline Assessment of the Current Environmental and Ecological Conditions of Weda Bay, North Maluku. The detail services is set forth in the attached of Term of Reference and other annexes.
