About GIZ

The Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) GmbH is a German implementing organization which provides services worldwide in the field of international cooperation for sustainable development.

About the project

In Indonesia, GIZ's Energy Transition Cluster / Energy Programme Indonesia acts as trusted partner and technical advisor to the Government of Indonesia for the transition towards a sustainable energy system.

The Energy Transition Cluster of GIZ Indonesia works across five thematic areas:

- Power system transformation
- Sustainable energy finance
- Industry decarbonisation
- Island energy solutions
- Just Energy Transition

As part of the Energy Programme's Policy Unit team, the position will advise Bappenas, Ministry of Energy and Mineral Resources (MEMR), and other key ministries on further integrating just transition principles in national energy-related strategies and regulations.

GIZ seeks one (1) motivated and qualified Indonesian candidates for:

Advisor on JET Institutionalization

(Job Title in SAP: Advisor)

A. Core Tasks

In your role you are responsible for the technical, substantive and organisational implementation of a project's measures and activities. In consultation with your line manager, you also assume tasks related to planning, steering and monitoring the project, including project administration tasks in some cases. You are also responsible for providing specialist support to colleagues in bands 2 and 3, and ensure the quality of the commission's outcomes.

In addition, you contribute to the conceptual design of the project, in particular its modification or realignment.

You make technical and substantive contributions to overarching issues in cooperation with commissioning parties/clients, partners and other actors and thereby support the achievement of the agreed objectives of the respective project and provide impetus for further strategy development.

In coordination with the country director and your line manager, you also use your contacts for the acquisition of contracts on behalf of the company.

In consultation with your team colleagues and line manager, you also coordinate all issues within your area of work and ensure that they are dealt with promptly and competently. You resolve problems that arise in your area of responsibility on the basis of existing rules and draw attention to more complex challenges in your team.

You are involved in ongoing process development within your remit, are responsible for knowledge management and prepare and share documentation. If required, you also support other experts in familiarising themselves with and performing their tasks.

You perform the tasks assigned to you by your line manager, where required.

B. Main Activities

The advisor leads a component with the aim of facilitating further integration of just transition principles in national energy-related strategies and regulations. The detailed tasks are as follows:

1. Provide expert advice to Bappenas, MEMR, and other key ministries—directly, through inter-ministerial processes, or via cooperation platforms—on further development, formalisation, and implementation of the national Just Energy Transition (JET) Framework.
 - a. Advise national government agencies on integrating JET measures into the national mid-term development plan (RPJMN), the update of the national electricity plan (RUKN), and other relevant strategies and technical regulations, taking into account economic, social, environmental and workforce dimensions.
 - b. Document and synthesise experiences at subnational and project levels related to social acceptance of large-scale renewable energy projects and economic transformation in coal regions, and channel these insights into national frameworks, policies and strategies.
2. Provide policy advice and technical support to Bappenas for its participation in the German-Indonesia Energy Cooperation Hub (Energy Hub).
3. Manage external experts (national and international) and events (e.g., training, consultations), including preparation of terms of reference and related documents, oversight of consulting contract implementation, ensuring achievement of expected results.
4. Contribute to project and program planning, reporting, knowledge product and publication writing, and portfolio development of the Energy Program.

The brief profile is not intended to provide a full and complete description.

Where appropriate and reasonable, the position holder is willing to perform tasks outside the scope of the job description.

C. Qualifications

- Master's degree in energy, public policy, environmental governance, social development, or related field.
- Extensive professional experience in facilitating national JET policy development, particularly on environmental and social impact management, as well as experience with policies on green skills, social protection, and economic transformation, is considered an advantage.
- Excellent policy analysis skills and strong track record in drafting policy briefs and proposals.
- Proven familiarity with drafting laws, regulations, and government strategies, particularly national development plans and energy sector plans (e.g., RPJMN and RUKN).
- Solid understanding of the mandates and roles of relevant ministerial units and local governments in JET-related policy processes.
- Strong professional network across governing institutions, private sector actors, civil society organizations, and other stakeholders engaged in JET policy development.
- Basic understanding of capacity development approaches and methodologies.
- Excellent written and verbal communication, interpersonal, and presentation skills in English and Bahasa Indonesia.
- Previous experience in procuring and managing national and international consultants is considered an advantage.
